- The employee need that is met is status and recognition.

THE COLLEGIAL MODEL

- The basic foundation of the collegial model lies on management's building a feeling of partnership with employee.
- Under collegial approach, employees feel needed and useful.
- They consider managers as joint contributors to organizational success rather than as bosses.

“Personality is an individual’s unique and relatively stable pattern of behavior, thoughts and feelings.”

Personality is that which permits a prediction of what a person will do in a given situation

- Personality is a term derived from the Latin word 'persona' which means mask or dress up.
- This is a mix of certain characteristics or qualities which define the character of a person.
- This is a dynamic phenomenon that combines many distinct human traits.
- Personality defines a person's recurring psychological patterns or emotions, feelings, beliefs, and behavior .

COMPONENTS

- Personality has components, internal as well as external.
 - External characteristics or physical features are measurable actions based on which we draw inferences about the personality of an individual.
 - The inner factors or cognitive characteristics are inherently more complex feelings, thoughts, ideas, values and interests.

IMPORTANCE

- Every person has a unique personality and they act in different situations in a different way according to their personality traits.
- Every manager should have understanding of personality dimensions of employees in order to manage them.
- Managers have to use varied motivation techniques to influence the behavior of their employees.

THE MYERS-BRIGGS TYPE INDICATOR (MST)

- The Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI) is a personality assessment questionnaire pinpoints varied psychological preferences of people while decision making.
- This is a popular questionnaire containing 100 questions.
- This questionnaire inquires people about their feelings or actions in particular situations.
- The MBTI helps in assessing personality types.
- It is a useful determinant of communication preferences during management employees.
- It also assists in employing right person at the right job during selection process.

The MBTI® 16-TYPE MODEL OF PERSONALITY

Source of Energy ▼	Processing of Information ▼	Approach to Decision Making ▼	Need for Structure ▼

EXTROVERTS	SENSORS	THINKERS	JUDGERS
Extroverts are energized by interacting with other people, participating in events, and are known to act quickly.	Sensors are pragmatic realists who focus on facts and their own real-world experiences.	When making decisions, Thinkers are logical, highly analytical and evaluate the facts.	Judgers like to make plans and lists, follow schedules, and are highly organized.

INTROVERTS	INTUITIVES	FEELERS	PERCEIVERS
Introverts are energized by ideas, reflection and working alone. They tend to analyze and reflect before taking action.	Intuitives focus on patterns, future possibilities and enjoy abstract thinking.	When making decisions, Feelers are careful to consider people, feelings, and various points of view.	Perceivers are spontaneous, flexible, and highly adaptable to their outside environment.
